Batson-Cook Construction, headquartered in West Point, Georgia, is a general contractor with a proven track record in delivering quality General Construction, Design-Build, Construction Management, and Preconstruction Services throughout the Southeast, including Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Texas. The company was founded in 1915 by Mr. W. C. Batson and Mr. Edmund F. Cook in West Point, Georgia, where it began operations in textile and mill village construction. Batson-Cook's general contractor, construction manager, and design-build contractor expertise span almost every primary industry throughout the Southeast, including education, healthcare, hospitality, office, retail, multi-family residential, industrial, and religious building sectors. The company builds more than high-quality buildings – it builds relationships. This way of doing business has positioned it as a leader in the construction industry throughout the southeastern United States as a general contractor, construction manager, and design-build contractor. Batson-Cook is a wholly owned subsidiary of Kajima USA.
