James Henry Flooring is a New Zealand supplier and installer of exquisite new and recycled timber floors and wooden flooring. The company's floor installation crews are enthusiastic, committed, and hardworking individuals who are collectively highly skilled in wooden floor laying and finishing. Their essential skills are patience, an eye for detail, and highly developed craftsmanship. The team has a great mix of age and experience with supporting trade qualifications in carpentry and floor installation. James Henry Flooring can provide just the timber floor to enhance your home. Whether it be an environmentally friendly recycled floor, traditional solid wood flooring, or modern, clean lines of engineered oak, there's a solution just for you. The company can supply only or manage your entire flooring project from manufacture to installation, sanding, and coating.
