Brandywine Design is a full-service interior design firm designing commercial and residential interiors since 1997. Its owner has been in the field for over 25 years and has lived in the Delaware Valley region since 1983. All of the firm's designers strive to provide well-thought-out and user-friendly interiors and the aesthetics for which our expertise is known. Open communication with clients is what makes Brandywine Design successful. The "pros and cons" of different selections and design options are discussed in detail. These designers are very approachable, and clients are put at ease when giving their opinions during the design process. Its clients also appreciate the firm's added attention and prompt responses. The owner is an ASID allied member, is Green Advantage Certified for Commercial Interiors, and volunteers as a Co-Chair on the Delaware Valley Green Building Council Delaware Branch. The Wilmington office is pursuing LEED Green Associate Accreditation. Brandywine Design has been featured on HGTV's Designer's Challenge in Delaware Today magazine, Delaware Valley Home and Design magazine, Trend magazine, and The NewsJournal.
